

Crime Wave!

These four "hardened criminals" were placed behind bars early Friday evening by Lexington City Police on charges of "preventing fabrication of pot-boilers". Actually the girls, who are UK journalism students, are at least fairly lawabiding. Their arrest was part of tapping ceremonies by Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalism fraternity. The policemen were accompanied by Debbie Schwarz, president, Kathy Reynolds, vice-president, and Judy Lester, treasurer, of Theta Sigma Phi. The jailbirds are: Ann Abernathy, Yvonne Eaton, Rosalie Redding, and Ann Young.

Press Announces Microfilm Series

By ROBERT J. SPRADLIN

The University Press has announced the establishment of a microcard series for manuscripts in the humanities.

The series, in which up to 10 books will be published annually, provides a means of distributing among scholars and libraries worthy manuscripts which would otherwise remain unpublished because of limited funds.

Dr. Lawrence S. Thompson, director of the university libraries, is editor of the series. He will select and supervise the preparation of the manuscripts, to be drawn chiefly from colleges and universities which are members of South Atlantic Modern Language Association.

One 3 by 5 inch microcard may have as many as 64 manuscript pages, so that the average book can be reproduced on as few as four cards.

With the aid of a microcard reader, which magnifies the pages to their original size, the scholar can use these cards as easily as he could the original manuscript.

In comparison with other methods of publication, the saving for the user of microcards is large. The average book in the series will sell for about $1.50.

This is one-half to one-third of the cost of photo-offset printing from typewritten pages and one-quarter or less of the cost of the usual letterpress book.

"Interviewing Techniques" will be the topic discussed by Wendell H. Ford of the Ford Insurance Company, Owensboro, at Patterson Hall at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

UK To Hold Exams After Graduation

UK commencement plans have been changed to a three-consecutive-day affair, permitting Alumni Day to be scheduled on a Saturday, baccalaureate services on Sunday, and commencement exercises on the following Monday.

High points of University calendar changes adopted by the faculty this week include:

(1) Final examinations will be held for all non-graduating students on the Tuesday-Saturday period after commencement exercises.

(2) All students will be dismissed from classes on Commencement Day.

(3) The period between the end of the spring semester and the beginning of summer school has been reduced to one week.

(4) No action was taken on the proposal to extend Easter vacation and limit the period between semesters.

The main purposes of commencement on Monday is to give the parents and friends of graduates an opportunity to attend both baccalaureate and commencement and to arouse more spirit for the occasion through a unified commencement program.

In the past friends and relatives that had to come from any distance could not attend both unless they spent the entire week.

The definite time of day of the commencement has not been set yet by the Commencement Committee. Ten o'clock in the morning is being considered at the present as the possible time.

No classes will be scheduled on the day of commencement for those not graduating. Exams will begin on Tuesday as in the past. It is the hope of the UK Faculty that this will allow students enough time to attend commencement if they wish and still have time left to study for finals.

Commencement Calendar

Saturday, May 28—Alumni Day
Sunday, May 29—Baccalaureate
Monday, May 30—Commencement
Tuesday, May 31—Finals begin for those not graduating.

Only one week instead of two will be given this year between the end of the spring semester and the beginning of the summer semester. This change was adopted last year by the UK Faculty to take place this year for the first time.

The UK Faculty made no change for this year or next in the length of vacation between semesters and at Easter. At the present a week's vacation is given between semesters to give the registrar's office sufficient time to record all the grades and prepare for the second semester.

After some experience with the IBM system, the registrar believes the work can be done in a shorter time. They believe no change can be put into effect before the 1956-57 school year.

If the vacation is cut between semesters, the time will be added to the Easter vacation. The calendar approved for both this year and next year still calls for a week between semesters and for Easter holidays to begin at 8 a.m. Friday and to end at 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Voter's Group Will Discuss Honor System

A discussion of the proposed honor system will be given at the League of Women Voters meeting at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Union Music Room.

Dr. John Henry Melzer of the Philosophy Department will be the moderator. Panel members will include Ann O'Roark, Alan Steilberg, Kaye Goldberg, and Bill Bilitier.

This will mark the first campus-wide program on the honor system. Students will have an opportunity to participate in the discussion and ask questions.

You All Come!

A "send-off" for the "Big Blues" and Coach Collier is planned for next Friday by Suky before the Tennessee game on Saturday.

The pep-rally will be at 7:45 a.m. in front of the Coliseum. The cheerleaders will lead the rally with yells.

Representatives of Suky said that the pep-rally would be over in time for 8 o'clock classes.

The team will leave the Coliseum by bus for Winchester immediately following the pep-rally. From Winchester they will board a train for Knoxville.

Lovely To Look At

One of these lovelies will be presented tonight as the Honorary Captain of the Pershing Rifles at the annual Military Dance. The candidates are: Jerry Kelly, Shirley Lynn, Nelda Clarkson, Kay Pelter, Dorothy McPhail, Eleanor Keesee, Doris Robertson, Billie Pitzer, Carolin McKenzie, Charliann Hall, Audrey Remmers, Greta Barrickman, Greta Boswell, Shirley Kirkdorfer, Sandra Perry, Katsy Downing, Marian Willis, Donna Hutcherson, Margaret Moren, Lynn Applegate, Kaye Goldberg, and Jenny Miller.

Class Scheduling To Be Emphasized

Renewed emphasis on obtaining a wider distribution in class scheduling is being stressed in the preparation of next semester's schedules.

To accomplish this objective instructions given department heads in the College of Arts and Sciences specify that at least 40 per cent of the departmental offerings shall be scheduled on the Tuesday-Thursday-Saturday cycle.

In addition, at least 40 per cent of the classes must be scheduled after 11 a.m.

Wing and Regimental formations of the Air Force and Army ROTC units will be scheduled at 9 a.m. Saturdays.

Other instructions recommend that any course having more than one section must schedule one-half of the sections on the Tuesday-Thursday-Saturday category.

No section of a course shall be allowed more than 35 students in it until all other sections of the course have at least 20 students.

In other wider class distribution efforts, no more than 10 per cent of a departmental offerings shall be scheduled at 9 a.m., no more than 15 per cent at 10 a.m., and no more than 15 per cent at 11 a.m.

Dawson

White will preside at this lecture program.

Eligible for the annual award are faculty members in the college who hold the rank of assistant professor or higher. Each year the choice is made by secret vote of the faculty.

A native of Long Point, Ill., the new distinguished professor was graduated from the Illinois State Teachers College at Bloomington, Ill., in 1928. He received the M.S. degree in inorganic chemistry at the University of Illinois in 1932 and was awarded the Ph.D. degree in physical chemistry by the State University of Iowa in 1935.

Dr. Dawson has been professor of physical chemistry and head of the Department of Chemistry at UK since 1945. From 1943 until his appointment at the University he was on the staff of the University of Chicago as research chemist and group leader on the Atomic Bomb Project.

Prior to that time he was a research chemist and supervisor of analytical laboratories for the Universal Atlas Cement Company and taught at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, University of Omaha, Eau Claire State Teachers College and the Pekin, Ill., High school.

In 1946 Dr. Dawson was awarded the War Department's Certificate of Merit for work on the Atomic Bomb Project. He is the inventor of a fundamental process now in general use for the extraction and purification of plutonium which is used in atomic bombs.

Suky Plans Joint Meeting Tuesday

There will be a joint meeting of Suky tryouts and Suky activities at 5 p.m. Tuesday in the Social Room of the Student Union Building.

Law Seniors To 'Try' UK Student Today

The seniors of the Law College Practice Court class will present a mock trial today on the case of George Plot of Worthington, a part-time UK student who was indicted this week for conspiracy to commit sedition and criminal syndicalism.

Plot has been charged with taking part in a meeting held May 19, during which he and another defendant, Peter Comrade, are alleged to have conspired to provoke a labor dispute and general disturbance at the Rip Cord Parachute Company here in Lexington.

Plot was a part-time worker at Rip Cord when the alleged action of conspiracy occurred. He has been employed as a labor organizer by the International Silk Workers' Guild and as travelling secretary and field man.

Prosecutors Charles Richard Doyle and J. Arna Gregory have announced that Plot and Comrade will be tried in the Lafferty Circuit Court at 2 p.m. today. Plot's attorneys are George D. Schrader and Joe Lee.

Prof. A. B. McEwen of the Law College will preside as judge.

Bolivian Students To End UK Visit

Two visiting foreign students from Bolivia, Dieter Ballweg and Augusto Gonzales, are completing their visit to the University this week, where they have been studying Agriculture Extension work since Oct. 18. They will go from here to Puerto Rico.

Their first week of work here involved conferring with the various department heads of the Agriculture College on research work pertaining to wheat, corn, potatoes, peaches, apples, cherries, dairying, and poultry.

During their second week they traveled with E. J. Kilpatrick, assistant state agent, and studied programs of extension work in Washington and Warren Counties. H. W. Whittenberg, assistant state agent, took them on a tour of Henderson, Graves, McCracken, Calloway and Todd Counties to study extension work.

This week Ballweg and Gonzales will take part in a Farm and Home Conference here. Levi J. Horlacher, associate dean of the Agriculture and Home Economics College, has been in charge of planning and executing their program of study.

UK Student Wins Encyclopedia Set

William J. Arnett, UK student, won a complete set of American Peoples Encyclopedia for submitting the best question to the American Broadcasting Company's program, America's Town Meeting.

The question was, "As the federal government grows, doesn't this tend to decrease individual rights and freedoms or is the converse true?"

The question was answered by Congressman John B. Williams (D-Miss.), a member of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, and Ralph E. McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution.

DECEMBER AND MAY: ACT I

Of all the creatures that inhabit the earth, none is so fair, so warm, so toothsome, as a coed.

This is a simple fact, well-known to every campus male, and, to most campus males, a source of rejoicing. But not to all. To some, the creamy brows and twinkling limbs of coeds are a bane and a burden. To whom? To professors, that's whom.

Professors, according to latest scientific advice, are human. Stick them and they bleed, pinch them and they hurt, ring a dinner bell and they salivate, confront them with a round young coed and their ears go back, even as yours and mine.

But, by and large, they contain themselves. After all, they are men of high principle and decorum, and besides, the board of regents has got stoolies all over. So, by and large, they contain themselves.

But not always. Every now and then a coed will come along who is just too gorgeous to resist, and a professor — his clutch worn out from years of struggle — will slip and fall. White though his hair, multitudinous though his degrees, Phi Beta Kappa though his key, he is as lovesick, moonstruck, and impaled as any freshman.

But he's far worse off than any freshman. After all, a freshman can thump his leg, put on his linen duster, and take out after the coed with mad abandon. But what can the poor smitten prof do? How, in his position, can he go courting a young girl undergraduate?

In this column and the next one, I am going to deal with this difficult question. I will relate to you, in the form of a two act play, an account of a professor's attempt to woo a coed.

The scene is a typical office in a typical liberal arts building on a typical campus. In this shabby setting, we find two men, Professors Twonkey and Phipps. They are lumpy and bent, in the manner of English lit professors.

PHIPPS: Twonkey, a terrible thing has happened to me. A terrible, ghastly thing! I've fallen in love with a coed.

TWONKEY: Now, now, that's not so terrible.

PHIPPS: Oh, but it is. Miss McPetridge—for that is her name—is a student, a girl of nineteen. How would her parents feel if they knew I was gawking at her and refusing my food and writing her name on frosty windowpanes with my fingernail?

TWONKEY: Come now, Phipps, no need to carry on so. You're not the first teacher to cast warm eyes at a coed, you know.

PHIPPS: You mean it's happened to you-too?

TWONKEY: But of course. Many times.

PHIPPS: What did you do about it?

TWONKEY: Looked at their knees. It never fails, Phipps. No matter how pretty a girl is, her knees are bound to be knobby and bony and the least romantic of objects.

PHIPPS: Not Miss McPetridge's—for that is her name. They are soft and round and dimpled. Also pink.

TWONKEY: Really? Well, I'll tell you something, Phipps. If I ever found a girl with pink knees, I'd marry her.

PHIPPS: It is my fondest wish, but how can I, a professor of fifty, start a courtship with a girl of 19?

TWONKEY: Very simple. Ask her to come to your office for a conference late tomorrow afternoon. When she arrives, be urbane, be charming. Ask her to sit down. Give her a cigarette.

PHIPPS: A Philip Morris.

TWONKEY: But of course.

PHIPPS: I just wanted to be sure you mentioned the name. They're paying for this column.

TWONKEY: Give her a Philip Morris.

PHIPPS: That's right.

TWONKEY: Then light her Philip Morris and light one yourself. Say some frightfully witty things about English lit. Be gay. Be insouciant. Keep her laughing for an hour or so. Then look at your watch. Cry out in surprise that you had no idea it was this late. Insist on driving her home.

PHIPPS: Yes, yes?

TWONKEY: On the way home, drive past that movie house that shows French films. Stop your car, as though on a sudden impulse. Tell her that you've heard the movie was delightfully Gallic and naughty. Ask her if she'd like to see it.

PHIPPS: Yes, yes?

TWONKEY: After the movie, say to her in a jocular, offhand way that after such a fine French movie, the only logical thing would be a fine French dinner. Take her to a funny little place you know, with candles and checked tablecloths. Ply her with burgundy and Philip Morris. Be witty. Be gay. Be Gallic . . . How can a nineteen year old girl resist such blandishments?

PHIPPS: Twonkey, you're a genius! This will be like shooting fish in a barrel. . . But I wonder if it isn't taking unfair advantage of the poor little innocent.

TWONKEY: Nonsense, Phipps. All's fair in love and war.

PHIPPS: You're right, by George. I'll do it!

(So ends Act I. Next week, Act II)

Fences Of Steel And Wire

(Editor's Note: Printed below is an article submitted by members of the Scott Street Barracks public relations committee. It seems that both the men of the barracks and the Kernel agree that the barracks should be replaced. We deny that our stories were distorted, however, and maintain that the only contention was a difference in outlook.)

The men of the Barracks have no objection that the Barracks are to be removed. They are unsightly, unsafe and are located on the edge of a slum area.

But we bitterly resent the distortions concerning conditions in the Barracks which have been printed in the Kernel twice in the past eight months.

First, the Kernel writes that the Barracks are located on the edge of one of Lexington's worst slum areas in order to give weight to its statement that they have "become a slum area in their own right."

The Barracks' residents didn't pick the Barracks' location, but they haven't let the slum area near them influence their own home. In order that the Barracks be separated from the slums a steel and wire fence divides the slums from University property.

Second, the Kernel prints the glittering generality that we are "away from direct University discipline and control." We cannot tell exactly what the Kernel means by this statement, but the implication is that the Barracks are a madhouse. This is untrue. We have the same type of monitor control and discipline as the other resident halls of the University.

M&O, The Fence Must Go

For thousands of years now, the Kernel has been trying to bless mankind by having Maintenance and Operations remove that monstrosity of a fence by the Journalism Building. Vague promises were once mumbled by persons unknown, but nothing has been done.

After employing a special research staff of 500 men from New York, the Kernel is prepared to give in concrete and undeniable form reasons why the fence should come down.

First, that blasted fence is a nuisance. Each week, about 600 people find themselves blundering into it. Some of these people are visitors, and it is not hospitable to have visitors blundering into blasted fences.

The fence also is a source of frustration and leads to serious mental conflicts. It takes a steady mind to come through unshaken after finding its body wrapped around the fence on a dark night. Many rabbits have felt this mental conflict while fleeing from Smiley Pete.

The fence costs money. Past Kernel editor Merrill McCord once ripped his trousers while trying to show an old lady a short cut to the Student Union. John Ribbonblatz, class of '25, suffered a sprained wrist last month when he flipped over the fence on a dark night. This is dangerous.

The fence might cause a Congressional investigation. Rumors are now being circulated that the University is a concentration camp because of all the wire fences. Such an investigation would not be beneficial to good public relations.

The fence is a source of danger. Three scientists have verified the fact that this fence has become radioactive because of its roots (which extend to Bikini). To expose innocent students and faculty members to a horrible radioactive death is unheard of.

The fence draws lightning. Another scientific survey has proved that the fence by the Journalism Building has some unknown qualities which make it attractive to lightning. Since the fence has roots all over the campus, a good blast of lightning could easily set fire to most of the campus.

The fence is a source of disease. Because

Third, the Kernel writes the sinister fact that "garbage cans" line at least one corridor of the Barracks. For that matter, a more thorough check would have shown that trash cans are placed four to each corridor.

They are identical to and used for the same purpose as the "garbage cans" in the Kernel newsroom, the Journalism Building, and over the entire campus itself.

Fourth, the Kernel describes cramped living and poor studying conditions. The truth is that the Barracks, with their single rooms, have more space per man than any other living quarters for students on the campus.

As for studying conditions, during the last spring semester the Barracks produced three students with perfect standings and half of the combined Army and Air ROTC students. Try that when four men are crowded into a room.

Fifth, the Kernel plays up the smutty remarks and pictures of nude women on the doors. What few pictures of women there were on the doors have been removed. We try to keep the smutty writing down to a minimum by periodically removing it, but a constant guard cannot be kept on a small percentage of the people responsible for this low verse. The majority of the Barracks should not be condemned for it, however.

The first time the Kernel printed its article on the Barracks it had some justification in the fifth charge only. In its recent reprint of this article its charges and implications, as here stated, were without basis.

it has decayed in many places, the fence by the J-Building harbors germs, insects, fungus and nicotine. A wound inflicted by the rough spots of the fence on a dark night could lead to a fatal ailment.

The fence is hideous. A college campus, by tradition, should be noted for its ivy-covered buildings, absent minded professors and chapel bells. Not the UK campus, though. It's noted for its ugly fences (which is why newspapers seldom run pictures of it).

Military men often fall down in their planning because of a lack of imagination. For instance, the free nations of the west owe a lot to the Greek victory over the Persians way back when. We wonder how much longer Thermopylae could have held out had it been blocked with the fence by the Journalism Building?

Next time you run across racial or religious prejudice just ask what color skin God has and which church He belongs to.

By RAY HORNBACK

One of the best of many attractions at Saturday's homecoming football game last weekend was the appearance of three very entertaining clowns. Many spectators, who thoroughly enjoyed the professional performance of the trio, wondered just who they were and how they came into existence.

The three, Jack Van Meter, John Jeter, and Harry Stille, are all members of the UK Troupers.

They spend many hours a week in practice for what this corner hopes will be a standard attraction at football games from now on.

As to how they came into existence—just talk to Jack Van Meter some spare moment.

The trio practices more than five hours a week and also performs with the Troupers at the VA Hospital, polio benefits, and many other worthwhile shows.

They deserve a big hand.

While doling out honors, the Marching 100 deserves a big cheer for the fine half-time entertainment which we've had all year.

The trumpet section seems to have developed into quite a shaky group. With "Shake, Rattle, and Roll" and other musical aids to the cheerleaders, they've added life to a comparatively dull student cheering section.

Tea and trumpets to you!

Note to Suky: Glad to see a shaker section. It certainly added greatly to the color of the day.

It certainly appeared that such a section, with blue and white streamers flowing is more colorful, spirited, and useful than a card section.

Roses to the 1954 Homecoming Queen, Margaret Ford, and to her two beautiful attendants, Norma Jean Brandenburg and Louise Whitt.

Oh, but to be a beauty queen judge!

Aspirin to the loyal fan who was escorted from the game several times by state troopers. How you got back in we don't know.

But we do feel that you owe the UK student body a thank you, when their boos and jeers convinced the somewhat embarrassed state Trooper that you should stay after several futile attempts to remove you had failed.

Enough for homecoming! We've turned up another topic! Advertising for women—ah, sweet mystery of life!

That is just about the only description you can tag on women's advertisements, as they are a mystery—especially to the masculine mind.

For example, when a coed sees an ad which says, "I dreamed that I went to an SGA meeting in my Madeinfirm bra," what is her reaction? Does she run directly to the store which supplies such implements and purchase one? And does she run for SGA on the Indecently Exposed Party ticket?

Either reaction is possible. What girl could refuse the elegant plea of an ad which said "Mine is the figure that launched a thousand successful motions in SGA meetings. You, too, can pass motions by simply purchasing a Madeinfirm bra."

Can't you see the reactions of the male members of the council when in walks Miss Dreamer . . .

"Well fellows, meetings are beginning to shape up."

"Would you put that motion in another form?"

Etiquette

The alums at UK's homecoming game this year certainly showed more manners than they have in the past. Instead of tossing their empty bottles, they rolled them gently down the aisles.

Gone Ape

Maintenance and Operations is really going ape over chopping down trees on campus. Now, if they'd just let the poor old trees alone and chop down the fence by the Journalism Building . . .

Debloc

Attention Delta Delta Delta: En attendant le déjeuner, nous formions un cercle autour d'un grand brasier. Tout à coup des cris affreux se font entendre dans la rue; nous volons aux fenêtres, et nous voyons une multitude furieuse accourant par . . . Ernouf?

Not Fair

Profs who impose penalties on students who don't attend lectures aren't being fair. After all, one or two students are married, work at night, live outside of Lexington and already knew everything.

It's Bliss

The offspring of a professor has been going around campus telling people that freedom of the press isn't necessary, especially on the college level. He'll catch on when they start requiring visas for travel between states.

The Word

A sparkling young theorist has developed the theory that J. Caesar didn't say "Et tu, Brute (accent on the e)?" when he was stabbed. It seems that Julius really spoke in Greek and said, "Oooof!"

The Asylum

By BILL BILLITER

The gentle art of kissing is the best game on campus. Its rules are complicated, the situations rugged, and players are without number.

Kissing has long been a part of the UK intramural program, although it is not officially sanctioned as such. The game is even older than UK itself according to rumors.

It matters little where or how the game was started, however. The big thing is that it is here to stay. The smooch will not go until the last co-ed on the face of the earth gets pucker-up paralyzed—and that's not likely.

The best thing about kissing is that the possibilities of the game are without number. There are no standard rules although in rare cases some co-eds have been known to come to UK with preconceived notions on the art.

Co-eds of this type generally end up as life-long failures. Many girls who have clung to outdated kissing rule books have gone insane. All too late many a dimpled darling finds out that there are no social rules involved in kissing; there is only the law of the jungle.

College dames naturally take a great amount of interest in the kissing game. To them, this harmless pastime often means either eventual matrimony or spinsterhood. Small wonder that the co-eds are so crafty in playing the game.

College joes, on the other hand, often fail to see the pitfalls of the contest. In their simplicity, college men indulge in the game with all the red-blooded enthusiasm they display in chugging their beers.

The college male, sad to say, is but a stooge in the game. It is the female of the species that gives the kissing game its undying zest and significance.

It is the co-ed that puts the game on the level of the higher arts. She is the one who perfected it. While the male has only one type of kiss—the sincere kind—the female has and uses millions of types.

For instance, the co-ed has long been notorious for the shy type of a kiss. This is the kind that is given after two or three dates. The co-ed comes to a halt at her door, blushes, and waits. After the lip action, the co-ed flees inside where she can chortle over the new moron she's fooled.

The "shy" type of smoocher often adds to her deception by telling the poor fool that "he was the first to ever kiss her." One wonders why this type is not struck down by an invisible hand whenever she announces her trueness to "ladyhood."

The hot-lipped co-ed is also a universal type of a mouth masher. She is the sort that looks at her date through slow eyes all the way home. When he starts to kiss her this type grabs hold for dear life all the while making appropriate panting and puffing noises.

There's the kind that runs her fingers through her date's hair while he's kissing her. Co-eds of this classification undoubtedly find kissing dull and prefer to look for dandruff.

The eye-shutter dame is the

Yip-Yipe-Yahoe-Ug Hear These Sounds Now

By ROY P. GLASS and MOT NOTSERP

Beware of noises and sounds—the time is here!

Reads like another Halloween scorchers doesn't it? Well, actually it isn't but for any new comers around campus y'all might be interested in some explanations of the signs and sounds from this bustling university.

First, let us take a gander at the region east of the Chemistry Building, north of the Men's Dorms, south of the President's home, and west of Clifton Avenue and Rose Street intersection, more specifically, the tennis courts. Whew! Noticed the activity around this location lately? We mean the digging and all the piles of mud and dirt cluttering our avenues of approach.

Well now, here's the latest. Letters from secret reporters, Alzy Feeling and Kenny Sing, state that Fort Knox is to be moved. Its destination is none other than the UK campus and there's going to be lots of money stashed away underground. This is obviously a Republican Sweet Deal Set-up for jobless students who can't buy enough cokes and nabs in the Grill or for those unfortunate "few" who are faced with the problem of paying parking tickets.

There is another rumor and it's unconfirmed, to the effect that a super-duper H-bomb shelter is being built. In the event of an enemy attack all SGA records, carbons, rejected budgets, and doodle attempts will be stored in the shelter.

The third possibility, and this comes from a hopeful student, is that a subway is going to be constructed to transport those working on the Ag. farm to military classes. This is no doubt propaganda.

Some of the boys at M and O (mud and ooze) were asked about this situation but we still are in the same mixed up mood as before. Not that they couldn't give us an Mona Lisa of the kissing game. Her date wonders if she's shutting her eyes in passion or just to pretend he's someone else. A third possibility is that she could have dropped dead.

A revolting type is the whale-lipper variety. This kind wears tubs of lipstick all over her big mouth. She likes to kiss her date on his ears, his nose, his neck, and finally his mouth. The poor guy ends up looking like he's been knifed.

The ice-burger stands rigid and passive through the process. The octopus type wraps her arms around the joe's head. The cheater type doesn't open her lips. The glutton swallows the guy whole.

The bush country variety refuses to smear lipstick in public but will go hog wild on a secluded lane. The crazy-about-my-little-old-honey type kisses her poor "honey" anywhere, anytime.

The kissing game always ends up in the most chilling kiss of all. This type, called the kiss of death, is generally given after some idiot has just said "I do."

answer but let's face it, we are too dumb to figure out their present plans.

Moving on to a building dedicated to the study of frogs, cats, and UK mascots, we hear horrible yelps sounding like under exercised dogs. The sounds are tricky. It's the poor cry of students still trying to pass principles of zoology.

Did you ever pass the Journalism Building and hear bloody, spine chilling screams? Stop in sometime and you will. It is much more interesting to observe their many shows than it is to watch TV. Those shows include among other things a daily fight with someone who claims to have been insulted, stomped, or sniffed at by this helpless newspaper. By the way, cries of this kind are heard the world over; wherever there is a free press. We don't hear sounds like this in Russia.

Rolling down toward Stoll Field we can't help but hear echoes from past Saturdays praising that fine fellow of the gridiron, Coach Blanton Collier. The sounds seem to say, "man what a great coach and gentleman."

Naturally there are the whispered sounds about coeds, certain sororities, and the virus X but these are overshadowed by the loud complaints over unnecessary fences and the price of the Ford Thunderbird.

Well, there are more sounds around the grounds but most others are unimportant. Finally, we hear the crackle, wheeze, and rattle of an over anxious professor who is trying to pound into hard heads the theories of modern dance, Monroe operations, and supersonic safety methods in Yankee Bron Swamp. We can say only one thing about these gentlemen—bless them.

Here's The News Now Read It

By BETTY BOLES

Would you like to know the news before it becomes news?

If you do you can then tell your friends what is happening before the papers get their stories out onto the streets.

The Associated Press teletype machine found in the Journalism Building will furnish all viewers the latest from 5:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. each day. The wire is brought in by the Southern Bell Telephone Company and is known as the "state wire". Its source is Louisville.

Mainly for the use of journalism classes the teletype is very valuable to the Radio Arts Department for script and news broadcasts.

Straight news stories, weather forecasts, sports, stock quotations, features, and foreign articles come in during the machine's 10 hour daily run.

Some news or features have a caption above them requesting that they be withheld until a specified date. Tuesday articles will come in asking that they be run the next Sunday. This pattern is followed for all the days. Of course most of the news is immediate but there are variations.

Congratulations are in order for Margaret Ford, the 1954 Homecoming Queen, and her attendants, Norma Jean Brandenburg and

Homecoming Queen

Margaret Ford, Kappa Alpha Theta, was crowned UK's 1954 Homecoming Queen, Saturday at Stoll Field. Miss Ford, an education major, was recently named Lances Carnival Queen.

Louise Whitt. And a bouquet of roses for the Charles Adams Tri-Delt Delux homecoming decorations and for the oversized Collier's magazine—Sigma Nu style. A word of praise is also in order to the Theta Downs and to the Kappa Sig Knockout Punch.

All in all, quite a weekend with the traditional crowd thronging Joyland for all post-game festivities. Hope recuperations are affected before the Tennessee weekend.

Seems that burlap bags are the fashion style for the week—especially for the about-to-be-members of the Phi Tau's.

For whom it may concern: there have been vicious rumors that one descendant of a great Kentucky figure—Daniel Boone—has not had his name in the Kernel this year—and also one talented dancer, Nancy Don Freed. So here are the names: Danny Boone and Nancy Don Freed.

Congratulations and roses go to Sue Ann Hobgood, queen of the Agriculture Fall Festival, and to Bob Crawford, king of the festival. Miss Hobgood also won the door prize Friday night—a bushel of apples.

Looks like Christmas will come early for the Delt and Tri-Delt housemothers. Their groups are sending them on a trip to New York with tickets to all of the shows.

Don't forget your helmet liners for the PR Dance tonight.

Panhellenic Scholarship Is Available To Coeds

A $500 scholarship will be presented by Panhellenic at the annual Pledge Presentation Night, December 2, Kaye Goldberg, president of the intersorority group announced.

Applications for this scholarship can be filed in the office of the dean of women at any time until November 20, Miss Goldberg said.

Any girl, sorority member or independent, is eligible to apply for this scholarship if she has creditable scholarship and a need for financial aid. The girl may be a high school graduate planning to enter the University or any girl already a student.

The $500 may be awarded in a lump sum or in amounts according to the needs of the applicants, Miss Goldberg said.

The final action on the scholarship, which will be called the Panhellenic Scholarship, was taken in the last Panhellenic meeting when the members voted to establish this special scholarship and discontinue contributions to the Frances Jewel McVey Fund.

Both the new scholarship and the donation to the Frances Jewel McVey Fund will be presented this year on December 2 at the pledge presentation in Memorial Hall.

At this time Panhellenic will formally introduce the pledges of all of the sororities, present the scholarships, and present the awards for highest standings last spring. This year's foreign student will be introduced and entertainment will include music by last year's winners of the All Campus Sing.

In selecting the recipient of the new Panhellenic scholarship, which will be presented annually at this fall pledge presentation, a board has been set up composed of three Panhellenic delegates, Miss Jane Haselden, assistant dean of women, one other member of the dean of women's staff, and one university professor.

During the meeting Panhellenic voted to give a donation of $100 to the K-Book. The candidates for this year's Miss Christmas Seal have been selected from each sorority, Miss Goldberg said. Miss Goldberg asked the members of Panhellenic to discuss a possible honor system on the UK campus with their individual chapters.

An exhibit of photographs by members of the Lexington Camera Club and a group of 25 old master drawings will be featured at the Fine Arts Gallery this week.

The photographic exhibition, entitled "Focus on Lexington and Fayette County," pertains to all UK students since these pictures, many made specifically for this show, are designed to focus attention upon places and things familiar, but seldom noticed.

All aspects of life in Central Kentucky are included in this exhibition—pictures of places and people as well as the historic buildings and scenes of Lexington and the Bluegrass.

The group of 25 drawings was lent to the University by the Achenbach Foundation for Graphic Arts in San Francisco.

These works, representing twenty-three of the great masters of the 16th, 17th, and 18th centuries, through their immediacy and directness reveal much of the spirit of the artist and his times.

Both exhibitions will continue through Wednesday, Nov. 24. The Gallery is open from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. daily except Saturday and Sunday.

COLLEGE SMOKERS PREFER Luckies—and by a wide margin—according to the largest and latest coast-to-coast college survey. Once again, the No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. They taste better because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. The pleasure you'll get from Luckies' better taste is vividly depicted in the Doodle above, titled: Modern artist enjoying Lucky while glancing in mirror. See the ecstatic smile? Well, you, too, can be happy. Just go Lucky!

Kentucky Lawyers Meet To Plan Scholarships

A conference of Kentucky attorneys from all of the 42 judicial districts and most of the 120 counties in the State was held last Saturday at the UK College of Law building.

The conference was for the purpose of creating a plan to furnish scholarship assistance to a few well-qualified and deserving law students of strong moral character, who face serious and difficult financial problems in getting a legal education.

A three-man committee of lawyers will select the recipients for the scholarships on the basis of character, need, and demonstrated ability, including college record.

Written applications, supplemented by personal interviews and written references will be required of interested students. The scholarships will be administered without cost through the Kentucky Research Foundation, a non-profit organization.

The scholarships will be known as Kentucky Law Scholarships and will be created by annual contributions from all members of the legal profession throughout the State.

Representatives from all of the local and county law bars in Kentucky will constitute a state-wide committee to seek the necessary funds for these scholarships. More than 90 lawyers, who agreed to serve on the committee, were present at the meeting.

The Conference was held at the invitation of Dean Elvis J. Stahr Jr., Dr. W. L. Matthews Jr., Professor of Law, served as Conference Chairman. Judge Brady M. Stewart, Chief Justice of the Kentucky Court of Appeals was the honorary chairman of the Conference.

The program included an explanation of the "living" scholarship plan by Mr. Julian W. Knippenberg of the Lexington bar, a member of the Conference Arrangement Committee, who helped develop the idea for these scholarships.

Circle K Club Is Considered For Campus

A new service organization for men may be established on the campus this semester. The Lexington Kiwanis Club is considering the possibilities of chartering a Circle K club at UK.

Circle K, which is actually Kiwanis on the college level, is now operating at 89 universities and colleges. It was founded in 1947 at Carthage College, Carthage, Ill. The Club is a character building group which offers service on the campus, to the school, and to the community. It is not primarily a social organization.

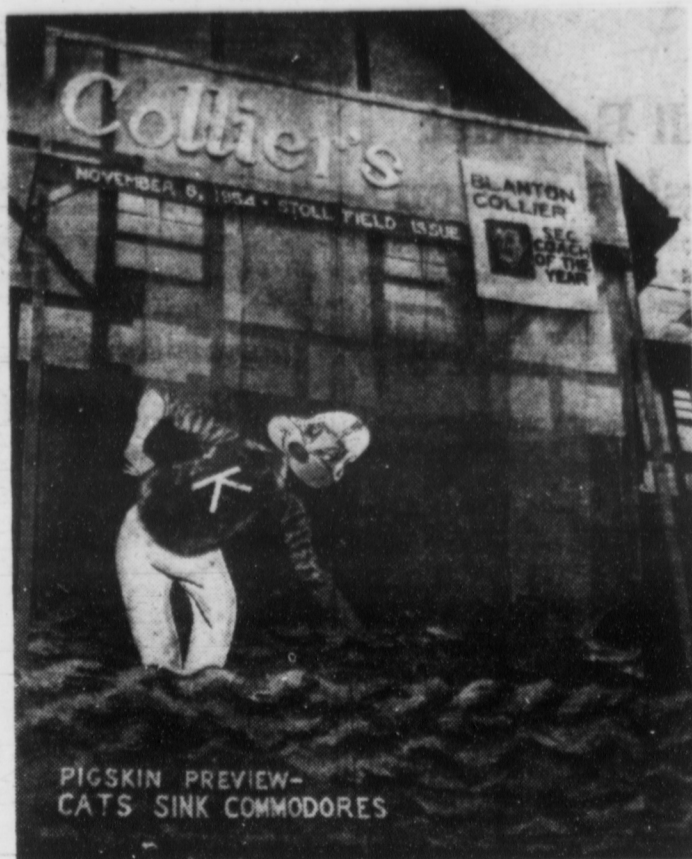

Membership is open to any interested University man. Former Key Club members and sons of Kiwanians have been issued a special invitation to attend an organizational meeting Tuesday night by Pinrose Eckton, president of the Lexington Kiwanis Club.

The meeting is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. in the football room of the Student Union Cafeteria.

Critic Praises Dutch Orchestra

By ROBERT E. LEE

One of the finest orchestras in the world appeared in Memorial Coliseum last week. The Concertgebouw (Concert Hall) Orchestra of Amsterdam gave one of the finest programs we have heard in the Community Concert Series. The program was very well balanced, containing writings from four periods in musical history.

In comparison with other orchestras we have heard here in the past four years, the artistry and technique of the Concertgebouw are unsurpassed. Mr. van Beinum conducted without the ridiculous variations we see in so many of today's conductors.

The program opened with the melodic and beautiful overture, Der Freischütz, by von Weber. It was followed by an early, experimental work of the contemporary Dutch composer, Henk Badings. It wasn't outstanding, but enjoyable and contemporary, an extreme rarity in these concerts.

It is safe to say that we have never heard Ravel's Daphnis and Chloé Suite No. 2 until we heard it done by the Concertgebouw. The attempts of other orchestras seem mere attempts by comparison.

After a short intermission, the orchestra concluded the program with Brahms' Symphony No. 1, in C minor. There were no encores, as Mr. van Beinum has a particular dislike for such things.

The Concertgebouw was undoubtedly the high point of the season.

Nature Series Begins Nov. 18

By AVERY JENKINS

The Audubon Society of Kentucky, the UK Department of Zoology, and the National Audubon Society will present the first in a series of three Audubon Screen Tours at 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 18th in Memorial Hall.

Audubon Screen Tours bring outstanding natural history lecturers, who personally present all-color outdoor motion pictures on a variety of wildlife subjects.

These programs are offered in the interest of wildlife protection, wise use of natural resources, and conservation education.

The opening presentation, Bonaventure Diary, deals with a great bird city located on the quaint and distinctive island of Bonaventure with its old-world customs and traditions. Tucked away off the Gaspe coast, near the mouth of the Saint Lawrence, live unusual colonies of sea birds and other wildlife.

Their color and activity are recorded in this motion picture program by Robert C. Hermes of Buffalo. He was the official photographer for the Royal Ontario Museum's Ungava Crater Expedition.

The second program on Friday, Jan. 28, is entitled "Newfoundland." The third, "Western Discovery," will be presented Friday, April 1.

No individual-program tickets will be sold. Price of admission, which includes all three presentations, is $2 for adults and $1 for school children. University students will be admitted on ID cards.

Tickets are on sale at room 14, Funkhouser Building. Also, tickets may be purchased from Eugene Simpson of 203 East Fourth Street, Lexington.

Sponsor To Be Crowned At PR Dance Tonight

Red and black, aqua and fuchsia overshadowed the olive drab Monday afternoon in the Guignol Theater when the members of Company C-1, Pershing Rifles reviewed the candidates for their 1954 honorary captain.

Twenty-two co-eds crossed the Guignol stage for inspection as Mat Frank, Pershing Rifles commander, and Joy Sue Blevins, last year's honorary captain, introduced the candidates, giving their home town, year, college, and organization.

Company C-1 is accompanied by their honorary captain and Lieutenants on drill matches and meets during the year. These girls march with the company and learn to execute fundamental drill movements.

Each member of the company voted for three of the candidates. One of these girls will be presented tonight at the annual Pershing Rifles Military Dance as their Honorary Captain and two will be named Honorary Lieutenants.

The dance will be held at 8 p.m. in the Ballroom of the Student Union. Charlie Blair and his band will provide the musical entertainment for the occasion.

The candidates for the PR sponsor are: Jerry Kelly, Boyd Hall; Shirley Lynn, Dillard House; Nelda Clarkson, Hamilton House; Kay Pelter, Jewell Hall; Dorothy McPhail, Barracks I; Eleanor Keesee, Barracks II; Doris Robertson, Lydia Brown House; Billie Pitzer, 635 Maxwellton Court; Carolin McKenzie, 643 Maxwellton Court; Charlann Hall, McDowell House; Audrey Remmers, Fatterson Hall.

Greta Barriekman, Alpha Delta Pi; Greta Boswell, Alpha Gamma Delta; Shirley Kirchdorfer, Alpha Xi Delta; Sandra Perry, Chi Omega; Katsy Downing, Delta Delta Delta; Marian Willis, Delta Zeta; Donna Hutcherson, Kappa Alpha Theta; Margaret Moren, Kappa Delta; Lynn Applegate, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Kaye Goldberg, Phi Sigma Sigma; and Jenny Miller, Zeta Tau Alpha.

The UK Pershing Rifles Company was first in the national drill competition last year. They have one of the largest companies in the country. Capt. A. L. Dudley, Signal Corps, is the advisor of the group. Their sponsor last year was Miss Blevins and their first lieutenant was Miss Justine Stinson.

"Crazy how?" asked the first.

"Well, for one thing, look how he dresses. He has a whole wardrobe of those perfectly stunning Van Heusen Vanahue shirts . . . you know the beautiful colored ones with the wonderful collar styles, those short ones and button-downs and spreads and everything?"

"He must be loaded," commented No. 1. "He's really cute."

"Silly. You don't have to be rich to own Vanahue Shirts. They may look like custom shirts, but they only cost $3.95."

"So what's so crazy?"

"Look at him," replied No. 2. He's got on that lovely green Vanahue with a blue suit."

"I don't care. He's cute."

"But he could wear almost any of his others . . . the pink, the yellow, the blue, or even the vintage. It's only because he's nuts."

Shortly thereafter, our No. 1 girl met the freshman in question at the drug store. With astonishing tact, she said: "My girl friend thinks you're nuts."

"So does my room-mate," he replied sadly.

"Why?"

"Just because I like pancakes."

"I love pancakes," she answered.

"You do? Well, gee, come over to the fraternity house. I've got trunks of 'em."

"You're cute," she said.

Minature UN To Appear In Coliseum

The World Affairs Council, "a miniature U.N. Security Council," is to appear for the second year in succession as a part of the Community Concert and Lecture Series in the Coliseum at 8:15 p.m. Thursday.

The program, well received last season, will present two of last year's speakers along with two new personalities. Camille Chautemps, former French Minister of Justice, of Public Works, and of National Education, and four times Premier of France, and Peter Von Zahn, Washington correspondent of several German news agencies are the returnees to this year's presentation.

The program is reported to be a portrayal of the United Nations Security Council in session. It is a telescoped version of the 11-nation council. There are no speeches, only a directed debate, with a question-answer session period following.

The four nations represented here will be England, France, Germany, and the United States. Col. Alan Ferguson-Warren and John C. Metcalf will be representing England and the U.S., respectively.

Col. Ferguson-Warren is a British Empire Specialist, who travels the world over. He also served 34 years with the British Marines.

Spiked Shoe Offers Annual
Prep Cross-Country Race
Tomorrow At Picadome

By GEORGE KOPER, Sports Editor

Track fans get their first chance of the season to see the cross-country runners in action tomorrow morning when Spiked Shoes puts on their annual high school cross-country run. The hard-working track group also promotes the Spiked Shoe Relays in the spring, in addition to handling the intramural turkey run, as their contribution to increase interest in their sport.

The runners will cover a grueling two mile route over the Picadome golf course. Starting time for the race is 10:30. Entries are running far ahead of last year, reports Bill Valleau, president of Spiked Shoes. Only 75 participants were on hand for the last running but entries have been received from 25 teams and over 140 individuals. Awards will be given to both top individual and team finishers. Last year's winner, Breckinridge County, looms as the team to beat in this season's renewal.

The Vanderbilt game last week looked more like flag football on the intramural field rather than the intercollegiate kind. Only in the Mississippi contest were the officials more active in assessing yardage. Over-officiating has been more apparent this season than ever before. Blame this on the added fifth arbiter or on the visits of George Gardner, but it's still not helping college football at a time when the pros are putting up a strong effort to lure fans to their game.

The officials were technically right in their calls but it seems that a little discretion could well be used to provide more action for fans and players alike. Two penalties that come to mind were a holding and clipping ruling against the Wildcats. Both were matters of judgment and similar to infractions that can be found on every play if officials really seek them out.

The interference infraction called on Dick Mitchell's end-zone catch surprised everyone in the stands. As the movies showed, it wasn't Mitchell's actions that resulted in the Cats losing a touchdown, but a block thrown by a Kentucky halfback just before Mitchell grabbed the ball. A split-second later and the Cats would have had another marker.

It's interesting to note how many of the top draft choices in the National Football League are missing from their rosters this season. The Wildcats' versatile all-American Steve Meilinger, who was chosen by the Washington Redskins, is putting in a hitch in service. The Cleveland Browns named Bob Garrett of Stanford as their No. 1 pick but traded him to Green Bay to gain the services of Kentucky's great Babe Parilli, after the quarterbacking wizard finishes his Air Force service.

Maryland's triple-threat star, Bernie Faloney, was ticketed for the San Francisco 49ers but decided that Canadian football suited him better. Stan Wallace, the hard-hitting Illinois fullback who was overshadowed by the exploits of J. C. Caroline last season, was slated to perform for the Chicago Bears but a broken wrist while practicing with the College All-Stars last August cut short his play in the pro ranks for this season.

Kentucky's freshman squad offers a preview of the coming seasons this afternoon when they tangle with the Baby Commodores in their first home appearance. The Kittens downed Morehead and were beaten by Vandy in their previous encounters. Two of the outstanding frosh players in these games were quarterback Ken Robertson and tackle Lou Michaels. Both have gained high praise for their performances this year. Admission is free to students upon presentation of their I-D cards. Don't pass up a chance to see some good football and gain a line on the Cats' future prospects. Game time is two o'clock this afternoon.

Wildcats Prep For Tennessee
With Memphis State Saturday

By BILL BURLESON

The Wildcats of Kentucky will prep for the traditional game with the Volunteers of Tennessee Saturday by taking on the single-wing of Memphis State at Stoll Field.

The Cats will go into the fray remembering the game of last season when the lightly regarded lads from Memphis rolled into Lexington and played the Big Blue off their feet for the first half and the Cats were willing to settle for their 20-7 victory. The Cats didn't ice that one until the closing minutes of the game.

Memphis started the season on the losing side by dropping a game to the Mississippi State Maroons 27-7. Then they pulled an upset by tying the Green Wave of Tulane 13-13. Underdog Abilene Christian then proceeded to tie the Memphis State 6-6. Murray State College was taken to the cleaners by the score of 34-6.

Another tie resulted with Tennessee Tech 25-25. Middle Tennessee State was the next team to feel the wrath of the Tigers by a 27-7 margin and Arkansas State was beaten 26-7.

The Rebels of Ole Miss punctured the injury-ridden Tigers to the tune of 51-0 last week. This gives them a record of three wins, two losses, and three ties. Significantly enough is that the Tigers' losses have both been to SEC foes.

The Tigers from Memphis are just recovering from a flurry of injuries that threatened to cripple the team. Billy Russell, junior fullback, had a bad leg that is responding well to treatment. Tailback Andy Nelson, the Tiger's number one signal caller, hasn't fully recovered from a knee injury.

Further injuries were sustained by center Dick Disbrow, another leg casualty, and tackle Bob Hazlett, who has been slow in recovering from the flu.

Tomorrow's game will mark the last appearance on a Kentucky field for seven of the Big Blue. Besides Koch, who will not even dress for the game, there are co-captain Pete Kirk, Dick Mitchell, Neil Lowry, Dick Rushing, Jack Hanly, and Dude Hennessey.

The two boys for the Cats to look out for in tomorrow's action are fullback Jim Shelton who is averaging around four yards a try and left halfback Andy Nelson who is the leading passer for the team.

This will be the first time that the Cats have looked at the single wing this year. It is expected that Memphis State will give the Cats all the teaching that they want in the practice of stopping it.

The probable starters for Memphis are Will Renfro, and Bob Ford at ends; Joe Billings and Cotton Clifford at tackle; Fred Williamson and Bob Patterson at guards; and Ned Suttle at center.

The Cats will probably start Schnellenberger and Mills at ends; Wheeler and Butler at tackles; Lowry and Callahan at guards; and Kuhn at center.

The backfield will be made up of Hardy at quarterback; Moloney and Mitchell at halfbacks and Rushing at fullback.

Game time is 2 p.m. with a crowd of 25,000 expected.

UK Yearlings To Tangle
With Vandy Frosh Today

Kentucky's freshmen seek their second win of the season at 2 p.m. this afternoon on Stoll Field when they meet the Baby Commodores of Vanderbilt.

UK will be seeking revenge, as the Vandy frosh handed them their first defeat of the season 26-6, at Nashville. The Kittens were superior in statistics but fumbled nine times, and three of the bobbles resulted in Vandy TD's.

UK, 7-6 winners over the Morehead varsity in their first tilt, smashed the Commodores last year in Nashville, 32-0.

The Commodore frosh, led by quarterback Charlie Bland, hit pay dirt in every quarter in this year's clash. Kentucky's only tally came in the final period when quarterback Kenny Robertson tossed a 30-yard pass to end Jim Solomon.

Students will be admitted on ID cards.

Probable starting lineup for Charlie Bradshaw's blue and white gridgers includes Jim Solomon and Bob Scott at ends; Lou Michaels and Don Moore at tackles; Jack Martin and Gil Sturtzel at guards and Paul Rose at center.

The backfield will be made up of Ken Robertson at quarterback; Dwayne Winger and Ray Moseley at halfbacks and Bill Livings at fullback.

Barracks Win Independent Title

By BILL HENRY

SAE downed Sigma Nu 13-7 Wednesday night to win the fraternity championship. Jim Baxter figured in both the winner's touchdowns, passing to John Salter for one and carrying himself for the other. Sherrill Ward added the extra point with a plunge. Dave Noyes passed to Bill Fisher for the SN score and tossed to Jim Ingram for the extra point.

Scott Street Barracks are the 1954 Independent Football champs. Sweeping through regular season play, the boys from Scott Street defeated a stubborn Newman Club team, 7-0, for the crown. Defense was the outstanding part of the game as both teams played alert defensive ball. Lloyd Gambrol scored the touchdown on a wide end sweep behind beautiful blocking. John Brainard passed to Ralph Ballard for the extra point and the game and championship was history.

In the opening round of the tournament, the Newman Club squeezed by the Barristers 7-0. The Delts out fought the PKT's, 18-7, as Hilton Minton intercepted a pass and ran 50 yards to score one touchdown, and passed to Eddy Lambert for another TD. Lonnie Yates scored another six pointer on a running play. Don Sullivan passed to Bill Blount for the only PKT score. Sullivan also passed to Blount for the extra point.

The SN's sneaked by the SX's, 7-6. Dave Noyes passed to Bob Angvine to score for the SN's, and Bob Stoll ran the crucial extra point. Harvey Young, on a running play, scored for the SX's.

The PDT's thumped the KA's, 12-7, as Bo Macer and Dave Swore scored TD's on running plays. Elam Stokes scored the only KA touchdown on a running play. A pass from Bob Logan to Bob Fredericks was good for point after touchdown.

The SAE's ran rough shod over the ATO's, 27-0. Jim Baxter passed to Bo Griffin and C. N. Boone for two TD's and scored the third one on a run. Sherrill Ward scored the fourth six-pointer on a run. Baxter, Ward and Jack Stevens scored the extra points on running plays.

In the semi-finals, the SN's bumped the DTD's, 6-0. The SN's tally came on a run by Jim Ingram. The SAE's barely edged the PDT's, 2-0, as Warren Nash, SAE left end, caught the PDT quarterback behind the goal line for a safety.

One That Counted

Jerry Beatty went high in the air to take this pass over the outstretched hands of Vandy defender Charley Horton for the Cats' first touchdown last week. Strangely enough, there were no flags on the play.

Cats Topple Vandy Despite 'Flag Waving'

By DAVE NAKDIMEN

Amid last Saturday's towel-tossing contest on Stoll Field, Kentucky's Wildcats conquered a disappointing Vanderbilt eleven, 19-7. Penalties proved to be Vandy's only salvation against a complete rout by what is fast becoming the best team in the Southeastern Conference.

Kentucky tallied three times in the second period, then sputtered and faltered for the game's remainder, losing two scores on penalties in the process. All in all, the Wildcats were set back 130 yards on called infractions.

The victory clinched a spot for Kentucky in the SEC's first division and kept them mathematically in the race for the league crown and a possible bowl bid. The latter is highly improbable since Georgia would have to lose twice; and Alabama, Ole Miss, Florida, and Georgia Tech would have to lose once. In addition, the Wildcats need a victory over Tennessee.

Featuring the Homecoming triumph was the stellar line play of end Howard Schellenberger, guard Neil Lowry and center Dave Kuhn. Schellenberger caught eight passes for 114 yards, Lowry blocked a punt and recovered a fumble, and Kuhn intercepted two passes.

Kentucky was far superior to the Commodores in the statistics as well as on the scoreboard. The Cats rolled up 18 first downs to Vandy's six; they picked up 321 yards offensively as against 104 for the Commodores.

The 130 yards in penalties assessed against the Wildcats also nullified some 80 or 90 yards in offensive gains. One of the penalties came on a Delmar Hughes to Dick Mitchell pass in the last minute of the contest. Instead of counting as six points for the Cats, Vandy got the ball on its own 20 on a call of offensive interference.
